

Wesley House, Cambridge

Professional Doctorate

Seeking a new direction?

Want to expand your horizons?

Then the Professional
Doctorate in Practical
Theology (DProf)
could be the course
you are looking for!

Launched in 2006 and aimed at participants from a variety of professional and/or voluntary contexts the DProf is one of the most comprehensive theologically-based degrees available. The degree is offered by Anglia Ruskin University in Cambridge in co-operation with Wesley House and the Cambridge Theological Federation.

Is it for you?

Comprising part-time study over 3-6 years (full-time study for Stage 1 is available) the course focuses on practice-based research and is aimed at participants from a variety of professional and/or voluntary contexts:

- ◆ ministers of religion
- ◆ public sector professionals and those in the caring professions
- ◆ those working in the charity sector and
- ◆ those in industry or business wishing to widen their knowledge of the ethical and theological dimensions of their professional and/or voluntary practice

What is the assessment for receiving the DProf?

- ◆ The production of a portfolio of work comprising three Stage 1 papers of 7,000 words each (exploring context, literature and research methods)
- ◆ Stage 2 dissertation of 59,000 words

What qualifications do I need to apply?

- ◆ Normally a BA degree (1st or 2:1) and a Master's degree in theology or related subject
- ◆ Applicants will be required to give evidence of their ability to work well with others in a group context

Programme Structure

For further and detailed information regarding the degree structure please go to:
www.theofed.cam.ac.uk/postgraduate/professional-doctorate

How much will it cost me?

- ◆ As a guide, fees for the current academic year (2014-2015) are £2,520 per year for part-time UK/EU students; £5,880 per year for international part-time students (visa restrictions apply)
- ◆ If relevant, the current 2015-15 fee for full-time study for Stage 1 is £4,200 per year for UK/EU students (£9,500 for international students)
- ◆ In addition to course fees you should budget for attendance at the Summer School in July

For all other information concerning this course please go to:
www.theofed.cam.ac.uk/postgraduate/professional-doctorate